The sales orders will be consolidated based on the EAN reference of the customer's delivery address.

All of the relevant parameters and address data must match for the sales orders to be consolidated.

These parameters are for the order, customer, customer order pallet Types (optional) and free type delivery address (optional) levels.

The optional values for the setup of the customer order pallet types will only be assessed when they are present for the customers of the sales orders.

Detail of Fix   The optional values for the free type delivery address will only be assessed when they are present for the sales orders.

For example, a free type delivery address may be set to redirect a sales order to a different depot or delivery location for a specific reason.

If a free type delivery address is specified, this delivery address will be used to consolidate sales orders for customer addresses with the same EAN reference and the same delivery address.

If the EAN reference is '0' or null, the consolidation will be performed based on the customer code and the delivery address as per the specification for the original development.
